Materialien für das Projekt: Syrische Anaphoren

Thomas Klampfl
3.12.2008

McConaughy, D.L., The Syriac Manuscripts in the Coptic Museum, Cairo, in: OrChr 71 (1987) 213–215.

Literatur

MS 2587a-c Liturgical fragments. Fragments a and b are paper and measure 6,5“ x 9“ and are in a very late Estrangelo script (12/13 century?). The fragments of part c are also paper and 5“ x 5“ and 2“ x 3“ and are in a very late Serta script. (213)

MS 2610 Liturgical fragments. Five paper folios measuring 5,75“ x 7,5“ and written in a late (18th/19th century) Serta script. 27-29 lines/page. (214)

MS 2690 Liturgical text. Two parchment folios 6,25“ x 8“ written in a West Syrian Serta of the 10th or 11th century. 19-20 lines/page. (214)

MS 1032 Book of the Service of the Mass in Garshuni. This paper MS of 311 folios measuring 6“ x 8“ is from the 19th century and was taken from El Moallaka Church in Cairo. Though the bulk of the codex is in Garshuni, there are Syriac sections: folio 1a has the dedication in Syriac. Folios 288-300b contain various prayers and sedre. (214)